

THESIS DECLARATION

It is the responsibility of the student and supervisor(s) to proofread the thesis carefully before submitting the final version to the Library, and to ensure that the thesis submitted is complete, accurate, and free of errors.

The document "Instructions for the Preparation and Presentation of Master's Theses" has been reviewed.

The thesis has been checked for:

- consistent, sequential numbering of sections;
- consistent abbreviations and units of measure;
- correct symbols and special characters;
- consistent headings and capitalization;
- consistent line spacing and table formatting;
- typographical errors; and
- grammatical errors.

I verify that the thesis was thoroughly reviewed (per the above) and all required corrections have been made. The thesis has also been checked to ensure that all pages are present, numbered, and paginated correctly. In my opinion, the thesis meets the standards required by the Division of Research and Graduate Studies.

At the time of final submission, the Graduate Studies Officer will review the thesis to ensure it meets the formatting requirements, focusing on the preliminary pages. If egregious mistakes are noticed in the thesis, the student will be required to correct them in the interest of ensuring a professional presentation of the work.
